REPORTING PRINCIPLES

Componenta's Sustainability Report 2009 - printed and web version - covers the three areas of the Group's corporate responsibility - economic, social and environmental responsibility. Componenta has published annually a separate sustainability report since 2006. Prior to that, in 2003 - 2005 we reported the environmental effects of our operations in Environmental Report.

This Sustainability Report 2009 compiles information of the Group's business units in Turkey, Finland, the Netherlands and Sweden according to the G3 guidelines of Global Reporting Initiative (GRI). Financial information has been prepared in accordance with the International Financial Reporting Standards (IFRS). The other information is un-audited.

Environmental information is reported from those production units that have significant environmental effects. Information of social responsibility covers the Group's whole personnel. Environmental and social figures include the information from the business units in Turkey since 2006.

Sustainability Report 2009 includes an independent third-party check of GRI Guidelines Application Level, according to which the report conforms to GRI Guidelines Application Level B.

At Componenta, sustainability is directly linked to the Group's strategy and strategic goals and is part of the daily operations. In this Sustainability Report, we communicate Componenta's essential economic, social and environmental effects to our stakeholders. Following the GRI guidelines in the reporting ensures the reliability and comparability of the reported information.

We follow and report the effects of our operations regularly and publish the related information annually in a sustainability report. The next report will be published in 2011.
